

Luxe design house, La Sorogeeka, takes you back to the fabled world of pretty princesses and royal kings with its new Vintage collection....

La Sorogeeka, the brand well-known for its high-end, luxurious interior solutions, has recently launched its Vintage collection. Revisiting the grandeur of yesteryears using luxe lines and plush styles from old palaces, the ensemble effectively transports you to the regal era with its lavish offerings.

Driven by the desire of morphing dreams into reality through the multiple capabilities of home and office décor execution the latest collection caters to every individual's royal dreams.

Using a subtle bronze and copper palette with multi colour accent in soft furnishings, miniscule attention has been paid to every detail for every product on display. To make the collection more exclusive, all the skilled craftsmen have been working in-house at the La Sorogeeka premises using a lot of the new veneer – Sinnoked Sapeli – to give the products a deep woody feel.

While the iceberg glass design on bronze mirror gives the sofa a very rich and contemporary look, the back cushion with matt gold zardozi gives a chic feel. Adding a global feel to the entire collection is the Venetian mirror with murano glass and the cabinet with brown mirror cutwork and deep etching inspired from a museum piece of Venice. Pedestals with brass nail-work in smoked sapeli make for some gorgeous crystal wares while a copper plate with tigri work adorns the ceiling giving it a rich classic feel. The curtaining follows the old world style of bunching and clapping, completing the old-world majestic look.

The collection takes La Sorogeeka, the brand a notch higher. Started and driven by the passion and hard work of celebrated designer Anjali Goel, La Sorogeeka always aims to create something unusual and the extraordinary. Their Noida facility spread over 3 acres of land, on a 3-sided open island plot with state-of-the-art machines, hand craftsmen, carvers, inlay and overlay artisans, hand
